A telegraphic dispatch from St. Louis, dated the 14th, speaks of the arrest, at Fort Kearny, of several members of the Pittsburgh emigrants (to California) upon a charge of wantonly and without provocation, murdering five of the Kansas Indians, and wounding many others.

Now, although, we are not altogether pleased with the manner in which this result (Kilgore's candidacy) has been brought about, yet the selection is undoubtedly, upon a full view of the case, the best that could be made.

JAMES K. POLK IS DEAD!

The eventful period of his life has closed! He breathed his last at eighteen minutes before five o'clock, P. M., on Friday, the 15th inst., at his residence in Nashville.

He had selected Nashville as the place, and the mansion of the late Judge Grundy as the house, where, after leaving the presidential chair, he could spend the remnant of his days in peace and quietude.

Yet too soon has he been called away from earth forever! His biography is interwoven with the most thrilling events of his country's history. The eventful period of his administration just closed will be handed down to posterity as one of the most remarkable in the annals of our government.

We shall always recollect the farewell between Andrew Jackson and James K. Polk, when the latter was about to leave for Washington, in the winter of 1845.

They have gone hence. May they hold sweet communion in the world of spirits! Thanks to the excellent teams and coaches of Voorhees, but no thanks to the abominable condition of the Cumberland road, and Mr. Henry Clay's vote in 1839-40, which stopped all further appropriations for its completion.

Among other incidents of interest which occurred, was the public celebration of the Odd Fellows, and the whig district convention for the nomination of a candidate for Congress.

The procession of Odd Fellows, including the oration by Mr. CONSTABLE, the G. Master of Illinois, was very respectable. No soldier the public dinner, given by the Order, at the Prairie House, was omitted.

We thought this was ominous of the fate which Ned is to meet in August! Whig as the district is, it is impossible that Ned can be elected. He is acknowledged to be smart, in his say; but that is such a rascally say, that hundreds of whigs will sympathize with Coffin of Parke, and Naves of Hendricks, and will refuse to support or vote for him.

Whether the democrats will nominate a candidate in opposition to Ned is not yet settled. If they do not, some whig will run against him, who is not an avowed American. If they do, the man will probably be Mr. Henry Secret of Putnam. If he be the man, he will beat Ned "like a day."

Voting in the Cabinet.

The Washington correspondent of the Baltimore Sun, May 22, says: The Cabinet certainly possess a considerable influence—more than any Cabinet ever did before.

He cannot credit this statement, without more conclusive evidence. It is not to be supposed that Gen. Taylor can forget the powers and responsibilities of his official position, or that members of his cabinet would presume to offer to him the indignity of balloting with him for a selection between applicants for appointments to office.

However humiliating the fact may be to the country, as well as to that portion of the whig party who hoped and believed they had found in Gen. Taylor a second Washington, and a man every way fit to be President, it is nevertheless true that Taylor has been overruled by the cunning whig managers.

Hence the first step, (says the Union,) was the repudiation of the veto power, and the pledge contained in the Allison letter, that he would abstain from interfering with the legislation of Congress.

This was the inception of the scheme of the whig leaders to introduce into this country the odious and dangerous example of electing a man to the Presidency who was incompetent to discharge the duties of the office, and would be compelled by necessity to delegate them to an irresponsible conclave called a cabinet.

ILLNESS OF GOV. CHITTENDEN.—The Louisville Courier of the 18th says: Some painful reports concerning the illness of Gov. Crittenden were in circulation here Saturday evening and yesterday.

THE STATE SENTINEL reaches us usually about one week after it is due. For two weeks past it has not come in the mail from Indianapolis. Wonder if the new whig postmaster at the capital knows where Madison is.—Madison Courier.

THE CALIFORNIA railroad convention, which was to be held at Memphis, Tenn., on the fourth of July, has been postponed on account of the cholera, until the 10th of October. Gov. Telford, of Georgia, has appointed a delegation, consisting of one hundred and five of the prominent men of the State, to this convention.

reach the conclave which the leaders of the whig party would establish in this government. They pursue their policy and perpetrate their acts of misrule in the name and under the cover of the President.

A WORD IN YOUR EAR, FRIEND!—Don't go near an editor's table, nor touch his papers, nor his books, nor anything about it. You don't know how much trouble you give him. Don't haul up a chair and talk to him for an hour, perhaps he has not time to listen.

The Latest Foreign News—Interesting Intelligence from Italy.

NEW YORK, June 16. The latest intelligence from Rome states that the Constitutional Assembly having essentially rejected the proposition of the French Ambassador, had given authority to the Trivunvirate and the Republic, to stipulate the following conditions:

1st. The people shall again be called to exercise their sovereignty by means of universal suffrage. 2d. The Austrians and Spaniards shall immediately evacuate the Territory and the Republic, and universal suffrage would be a mockery under the pressure of foreign arms.

CORRESPONDENCE.

Extract from a letter dated Fort Kearny, FORNEY'S FORT KEARNY, On Platte River, May 19, 1849. I am now on the river Platte, about 250 miles from Independence, and 300 east of Fort Laramie.

On Sunday last we lay encamped near the Little Blue River. For several days we followed the course of this river, until Wednesday, when we turned to the right and reached the Platte river, nearly 20 miles distant.
